

Our hearts are always connected with others even when we are not together.
By thinking of someone and wishing them well,
feeling grateful for the place they have in our hearts,
we keep that connection strong.

